“AIDING AND ABETTING THE KLAN BORDER WATCH”

Before converting to Tom Tancredo’s worldview, Donald Trump wanted nothing to do with the types of David Duke, a position and opinion that most Americans would agree with, especially considering Trump’s social standing in New York City. After his conversion to the Tancredo playbook however, Donald Trump has embraced the worldview, ideology, genre, friends and attitudes of white supremacists and members of the American Nazi Party. During the Electoral Cycle of 2016, David Duke urged his numerous followers to get involved with the Trump campaign stating “I hope he does everything we hope he will do.” This is a coded reference to focusing obsessively on the US-Mexico border and cracking down on immigrants.

David Duke, a white nationalist and former Ku Klux Klan grand wizard, is urging the listeners of his radio program to volunteer and vote for Donald Trump.

“Voting for these people, voting against Donald Trump at this point is really treason to your heritage,” Duke said on the David Duke Radio Program Wednesday, referring to Ted Cruz and Marco Rubio. “I’m not saying I endorse everything about Trump, in fact I haven’t formally endorsed him. But I do support his candidacy, and I support voting for him as a strategic action. I hope he does everything we hope he will do.”

Duke then urged his followers to call Trump’s campaign headquarters to volunteer.

“And I am telling you that it is your job now to get active. Get off your duff. Get off your rear end that’s getting fatter and fatter for many of you everyday on your chairs. When this show’s over, go out, call the Republican Party, but call Donald Trump’s headquarters, volunteer. They’re screaming for volunteers. Go in there, you’re gonna meet people who are going to have the same kind of mindset that you have.”
